NEW YORK.

Treaty of Washington.

TRIAL OF HALL AND STOKES.

NEW YORK, March 1, 1872.

THE TREATY OF WASHINGTON.

Sir Stafford Northcote, who was one of the Joint High Commissioners of the Washington treaty, writes to the London Globe, excepting to the unfavorable comments of that journal upon the promotion of Lord Ripon to a Marquisate for his services on the commission, and says that the ex Commissioners are silent on the charges of negligence, slovenliness and other faults which have been made against them, from a disposition to not further complicate the unfortunate difficulty, which, he trusts, may yet be satisfactorily solved.

Minister Gladstone, in his letter to a newspaper correspondent denying that he used in his speech the offensive language concerning the Washington Treaty attributed to him, says: "It is entirely a mistake to suppose I have ever said that every rational mind must see but one meaning in the Treaty of Washington. Nothing would have induced me to use such an expression. The limit of my assertion, stated briefly, was and is as follows: 'I believe the meaning of the treaty to be clear and ambiguous, according to any legitimate test whatever which can be applied to it.' This proposition I am, of course, ready to sustain in argument. But every other person is equally entitled to think, if he sees cause, that what I hold to be clear and ambiguous is dark and doubtful, or, that it is clear and unambiguous in a sense contrary to mine. What I trust is, that others, upon close examination, will not see cause to think any such thing. At this point, a little time and patience cannot fail thoroughly to elucidate, setting aside the remark which I did not use, and which I think open to severe animadversion. I have always understood and still understand that any man is at liberty to hold and to state, with the utmost confidence, an opinion as to the meaning of a document, and this I have done without being open to the charge of what I conceive to be a gross offence; namely, his presuming to restrain for others the liberty which he claims for himself. Indeed, speaking according to the usages and habits of English public life, I feel as if the utterance of such propositions were not so much of truth as a truism. If, however, this truth or truism be applicable to documents in general, it requires but a moderate share of modesty to adopt it in the case of documents such as the treaty and its protocols."

MAYOR HALL'S TRIAL.

The trial of Mayor Hall commenced this morning. The case for the prosecution was opened by Mr. Clinton.

In opening for the prosecution in the Hall trial, Mr. Clinton said that the case was one of the greatest importance. High as the defendant's official position was, he is not higher than the law, which grasps him as it would the lowest and meanest criminal. He continued at length, claiming that the great power conferred upon the Mayor by the city charter was made to inure to political favorites at the expense of the public treasury.

Clinton went on to explain how, through Mayor Hall, Tweed, Conolly and Sweeny, the knavery of the city was used by every sort of device that sharp ingenuity could suggest, and then, said he, lest there should be any other outlet for public money, they actually got a law passed empowering them, as a Board of Audit, to appropriate any sums that might be left over to "other purposes," besides absolute power to fix the salaries of all public officers.

Clinton resumed his remarks, showing further how the power of the Board of Audit was used, and that the Mayor was invested with the veto power even over their acts. He discussed and rehearsed the county court house frauds with a view of showing the Mayor's complicity and knowledge of them. He proceeded to show that the immense claims for enormous sums were falsely certified to by the Mayor, whose powers were far from ministerial. He controverted the idea that the Mayor's signing away these fabulous sums on the city accounts were chargeable to routine, as it was his duty to examine all such warrants.

Court adjourned until Monday.

STOKES' CASE.

Mr. Graham, one of Stokes' counsel, continued to argue the illegality of the Grand Jury this morning.

Mr. Graham wanted the case to go to the jury on the facts. It would be highly improper in a criminal case for the court to substantially take the case from the jury by directing a verdict against Stokes. There was no instance in which in a criminal case the court had instructed the jury to find for the people.

Mr. Stoughton, of the defence, called attention [interrupting] to the latitude of the counsel, and protested against the remarks of Clinton.

Judge Daly thought it would be indecorous to interpose with the counsel in unfolding the case to the jury at the opening, but he would interpose when the dignity of the court was not respected.

After Graham concluded, Judge Cardoza said he would do either of two things, either let the jury find a general verdict, or instruct them to find a special verdict in favor of the defense. He would instruct them to find for the Board of Commissioners, properly constituted, but all the other facts for the prisoner. He did not think it necessary that McKeon, of Stokes' counsel, should address the jury, but McKeon thought differently, and proceeded in some remarks about exposing deviltry in City Hall, and turning to Stokes, said, "This unfortunate man is as guiltless as any in this court room." This was greeted with a scornful laugh from every one in the room, which caused Stokes to appear much frightened at the outburst of unfriendliness, and Judge Cardoza said he would clear the court if such demonstrations were made again.

McKeon continued his remarks till the adjournment of the court.

CONGRESS.

WASHINGTON, March 1, 1872.

SENATE.

SUMNER'S HEALTH FAILING.

Mr. SUMNER, in a personal explanation, stated that his health would not permit his serving on the Committee for the Investigation of the Sale of Arms to the French. He regretted this, but the effects of injuries received sixteen years ago still clung to him, and as he had been painfully admonished within the last few days, his physician had imperatively prescribed repose.

CREDENTIALS PRESENTED

The credentials of Mr. Sargent, Senator elect from California, were presented.

DUTIES ON TEA AND COFFEE.

Mr. SHERMAN, from the Finance Committee, stated that he was authorized to announce that if the duty on tea and coffee was repealed, the law would not go into effect before July 1st.

NEW YORK CUSTOM HOUSE.

Mr BAYARD offered a resolution asking the President for the instructions given to the District Attorney relative to the prosecution of New York merchants for giving gratuities to Custom House officials.

Mr. CONKLING asked him whether he had not read the correspondence in the papers.

Mr. BAYARD said he had, but wanted to know from the President whether they were authentic. If merchants of New York were to be selected for the prosecution, then the main channel by which the investigating committee could discover abuses in the Custom House would be effectually closed.

Mr. BUCKINGHAM said there was no reason why violators of law should be exempt because they were merchants. He did not, however, object to the resolution.

Mr. BAYARD said the question was, whether the main channel of discovering abuses should be closed.

ARM SALES TO FRANCE.

Mr. CAMERON moved that the Vice President appoint an investigating committee into the alleged sale of arms to French agents.

The Vice President declined.

Mr. CAMERON then offered a resolution that Senators Hamlin, Carpenter, Sherman, Sawyer, Logan, Stevenson and Harlan be the committee. He explained that owing to the declination of Mr. Sumner, he substituted Mr. Hamlin.

Mr. TRUMBULL said he thought one of the Senators who brought this matter before the Senate ought to be on the committee, and thought as Sumner was not on the committee, that Schurz ought to be.

Mr. SUMNER thought that, in ordinary fairness, one of the two Senators who had taken a prominent part in instituting this inquiry should be on the committee. He (Sumner) could not serve, and it seemed to him that the Senator from Missouri (Schurz) should be on the committee.

Mr. BOREMAN moved to lay the resolution and amendment on the table. Carried—yeas 25, nays not counted.

The Legislative Appropriation bill was taken up and discussed, after which the Senate went into executive session, and soon after adjourned.

HOUSE.

PRINTING CONGRESSIONAL REPORTS.

Mr. BEATTY, from the Committee on Printing, gave notice of a bill providing for the publication of Congressional reports.

WISCONSIN RAILWAY LAND GRANT.

The bill for the extension of the Wisconsin land grant came up. A great deal of fillibustering ensued thereon.

An amendment was offered that a proviso be inserted that only American iron be used on the road. There was considerable debate and short fillibustering speeches, involving tariff and protection as a side issue, the question being a reference of the bill with instructions to the Public Lands Committee to report any time next week after Monday, and that the bill, when reported, shall be open to debate and amendments.

STAMP DUTY REMOVED.

The Senate amendment to the bill removing the stamp duty on canned fruits, &c., was concurred in. The bill goes to the President.

QUARANTINE.

A bill was passed for a more effective system of quarantine in southern and gulf ports, authorizing a detail of army surgeons to confer with the local authorities on the subject.

The House went into committee on the deficiency appropriation bill, and soon after adjourned.

—A Richmond dispatch states that the tobacco business in the whole State, as well as in North Carolina, is at a stand-still, awaiting Congressional action on the production. Over ten thousand negroes in Richmond alone are idle, and aggregate over thirty thousand in this State who are out of employment and suffering.

FOREIGN.

The Assault upon Victoria

The Assailant in Court—The "Amnesty Petition."

GREAT BRITAIN.

THE ASSAULT UPON THE QUEEN.

LONDON, March 1.—The assault upon the Queen yesterday by O'Connor is the theme of universal comment and condemnation in the journals. Previous to the attack, O'Connor scaled the iron railing, ten feet high, which surrounds the court yard of Buckingham Palace. When he approached the carriage of the Queen, he first saw Lady Churchill, the lady in waiting, who was riding with her. He was about to assault her, but he soon discovered his mistake and turned on the Queen. Her Majesty's groom, John Brown, who was riding behind her carriage, upon witnessing the action of O'Connor, leaped from his horse and arrested and disarmed the assailant.

The prisoner will be brought to the Bow street station in the morning, when a preliminary examination will be held.

All approaches to the Bow street police station are jammed by an immense concourse of people, who have gathered in the hope of catching a glimpse of O'Connor, the assailant of the Queen.

The father of the prisoner is an Irishman, while the other portion of his family are English, and belong to the Protestant Church. O'Connor's house has been thoroughly searched by detectives, but nothing whatever was found to criminate any one with him in his dastardly act.

LONDON, March 1—Evening.—The assailant of the Queen was brought before the police magistrate at Bow street at noon to-day for examination. The court room and all its approaches were densely crowded. The prisoner presented a very boyish and not unpleasing appearance, and to-day he was quiet and unassuming in manners. On being interrogated by the magistrate, he stated that his name was Arthur O'Connor; that he was born in England, but that his father was a native of Ireland. It was subsequently elicited that his grandfather was the well-known Feargust O'Connor, one of the leaders of the Chartist movement.

John Brown, her Majesty's groom, Col. Hardinge, equerry to the Queen, and Prince Leopold, testified to the circumstances of the assault, of which they were eye-witnesses. Their statements do not differ materially from the accounts already telegraphed to the Associated Press. One of the policemen into whose custody O'Connor was delivered swore that the prisoner said that the reason he had not loaded the pistol was because it was broken; that he repeatedly exclaimed, "I wish to God I had succeeded;" that he avowed he had intended to present the petition for Fenian amnesty to the Queen in St. Paul's Cathedral on Tuesday when she was surrounded by her ministers; that he then had a pen and ink ready for her to sign the document with; that he would have made the attempt, but the crowd was so great that he could not get near her Majesty. Two papers found on the prisoner when he was seized were produced in court and read—one pardoning all Fenian convicts, is in substance as follows: "I, Victoria, Queen by the Grace of God, make the following declaration: whereas there are now confined in various prisons throughout the kingdom a number of Irishmen, known as celebrated Fenians; whereas, they were imprisoned with my sanction, having rebelled and conspired against the crown, and to weaken and destroy my power; whereas sympathizers with these men have petitioned for their pardon, and notwithstanding that they are still unliberated; now, I Victoria, Queen, &c., do grant full pardon to each and every Fenian prisoner unconditionally, and notwithstanding this, my agreement, is made under fear of my life, I will not depart therefrom." This is dated February 22d, 1872. The other document is a commutation, in advance of the punishment of the prisoner for his present act from hanging to shooting, and is dated February 27.

At the conclusion of the examination, the prisoner was committed for trial at the assizes, and taken back under a strong escort. It is evident that the papers found on the prisoner are his own work, and the impression of all who heard them read is that they are the product of a deranged mind.

The Queen left Buckingham Place today for Windsor Castle. On her arrival at Windsor she was met by almost the entire population of the place with the warmest demonstrations of loyalty and affection.

TUESDAY'S CASUALTIES.

The Lancet, a well known medical journal, gives the number of casualties in this city on Tuesday last, caused by the falling of stands, and the moving of the great mass of people congregated to view the thanksgiving demonstration, at two hundred and twenty-nine, only two of which, it says, resulted fatally. The most of the injuries consisted of broken and dislocated limbs.

MARINE NEWS.

QUEENSTOWN, March 1.—The steamships Russia and Republic have arrived.

A Plea for Night Air.

But in Heaven's name what air, as Miss Nightingale says, can we breathe at night except night air? The choice lies between pure night air from without and foul night air from within; most people prefer the latter, it is true, but it is night air all the same, though they may not be aware of the fact.

Did you ever test these two kinds of night air by going early in the morning into the room of a person brought up to sleep with closed windows, and immediately into one where the sash has been lowered six inches from the top, and raised six from the bottom? Well, what did you find? In one, however pretty and well arranged, however healthy, neat and well-bred its occupant, a smell of bed clothes, of damp towels, of dust, of carpet—all slight, but all indicative of that used-up condition of the atmosphere which is so fatal to a sleeper. In the other, no better situated or furnished, an elastic feel, a perfume of freshness which made breathing pleasant. Was it not so?

Or did you ever compare your own sensations after sleeping in fresh air with those produced after sleeping in foul? How many of the failures, the mischances of life, the morning dullness which hindered this or that, the refusal of the brain to work at a critical moment, the apathy, the blindness of perception, date back to that unaired bed-room which sent us forth unrefreshed to our work, and ushered in a depressing and discouraged day.

But it is useless to contend with so deeply-rooted a prejudice. Let us go back to our exiled friend, who certainly has a day-time claim, though he be denied a nightly one, to our sufferance.

How few of us recognize, as the long winter creeps away, and, shrinking from the outward chill, we cower into the fireside corners and warm days, how day by day we are insensibly contenting ourselves with the same breathed-over air which, scarcely renovated since, supplied our lungs yesterday and the day before. "Open the windows, indeed," we cry; "why, it's all we can do to exist with them tightly shut!"

Yes, but paradox as it seems, there is warmth in the very cold which an open window would admit. That is, the oxygen of the purer air, quickening the circulation and bringing the temperature of head, hands, and feet into proper balance, will of itself induce a glow which helps the fire to rewarm the room after its airing. And with the equipoise of the circulation good humor comes, and cheerfulness and the capacity to be amused. How we lose these things—how dull we grow stewing over registers, or before anthracite-burning stoves. The winter seems to get into us—our wits stiffen and freeze; we don't laugh or enjoy, we simply endure life, and with desperate longing sit waiting for the spring.—From "Home and Society;" Scribner's for March.

QUEEN CHARLOTTE'S necklace of well matched amethysts, the most perfect in existence, was valued when worn by her at $10,000; at present it would not command as many shillings, so great has been the importation of late years of German amethysts and topazes, which are dug in endless abundance in the Siebengeberge on the Rhine.

—Seth J. Comly's nomination as Collector of Customs at Philadelphia has been confirmed by the Senate.

OIL CITY.

Meeting of Oil Producers.

OIL CITY, March 1.—A large and enthusiastic meeting is being held in Love's Opera House, in the interest of producers of the oil regions generally. It is largely attended from all parts of Oildom. The object is to provide measures to secure, independent of all existing railroads, means for the transportation of oil at uniform and reasonable rates. The prospects indicate that a road will be built by producers to Buffalo or Erie, connecting with all points in the oil-producing districts. The producers seem determined to outgeneral the combination by ceasing to sell crude. They are refining all they can on the Creek and tanking the balance. Refineries are being erected as rapidly as possible, to a capacity equal to the production, and proceeding thus till their railroad is built. Adjourned till three P. M.

SECOND DISPATCH.

The meeting held here to-day is to oppose the mandates of the South Improvement Company, which proposes to control not only the price, but the refining interests, and monopolize the entire oil trade. The morning session was spent in drafting relosations in favor of another outlet for the oil regions. The meeting was not extravagant in demonstration, but means strictly business, and intends in less than sixty days to have an outlet which will be free of all cliques or combinations.

In the afternoon dispatches were read from various parts of the country, encouraging the producers to carry their plans through for a new means of transportation. A dispatch from Buffalo states that Buffalo will meet the oil region more than half way with a railroad within four months. Erie guarantees a railroad that way in less time. The transportation would be by way of water from Buffalo or Erie. Mr. Galbreith, of Erie, says he wonders that the people of Pennsylvania do not go in a body to Harrisburg and overthrow the Legislature which permits and encourages the growth of such a powerful monopoly as the Pennsylvania Central Railroad, which wields a greater power than the State Legislature.

A large number of resolutions were adopted, among which were the following:

Resolved, That no producer should sell any oil to the South Improvement Combination; and, also,

Resolved, That a committee be appointed to see at what figures the purchase of the Oil Creek and Allegheny Railroad could be negotiated for, as every offer to sell the road at a less figure than a new road can be built and stocked for was refused.

Resolutions were passed and signed by a very large number of producers to shut down the wells on Sunday, and to start no drilling wells for sixty days. This will produce a scarcity of oil, and operate to the advantage of producers.

The meeting adjourned at 5 P. M., to meet at Franklin, on Tuesday at 10 A. M. Over two thousand oil men attended the meeting here.

THE COW POX.

How the Vaccine Matter is Manufactured.

[From the Springfield, (Mass.) Republican.]

The room in which the heifers are kept is light, warm, and airy—a perfectly finished room, indeed, with plastered walls and ceiling; and the stalls are built with as great regard to comfort and neatness as those of a gentleman's stable. Dry saw dust is furnished for a bedding, and the best hay and meal mashes for food. Under the large south window stands a peculiar operating "table," with a top which folds down, two projecting arms then coming to the floor, as if forming extra legs. The heifer selected is led out, placed alongside this table, and its fore feet secured by fastenings already attached to one arm, and its hind legs in like manner to the other. A stout belt encircles its body and the flat top of the table, and a halter and neck strap hold its head in place at one corner. Then the whole top is tilted up to place and secured, and the bovine martyr is recumbent on one side upon the point of the table. A portion of its abdomen, about the size of two full-grown hands, is then shaved clean, and the vaccine virus from another heifer, at the seventh day of the disease, is inserted in little punctures arranged in rows an inch apart each way. The table-top is again canted down, and the little beast released and installed till six or seven days after, when its vesicles are ripe for the supply of lymph to another heifer and the human race in general. It is then replaced on the table, and the operator taking a box of small ivory points, prepared for that purpose, a rack for the same to dry on, and a pair of peculiar shaped, slim pliers, seats himself at the side of the table. With the pliers he gently squeezes each pustule in turn, and as the lymph oozes forth carefully collects it on the ivory points. From a good yielding animal several hundred points can be charged. This done, the heifer returns to her stall and remains a few days longer, when the "crusts" having matured, are carefully taken off and mounted in gutta percha for the use of those physicians who prefer this form of administration. The heifer then, having fulfilled its mission, returns to private life. The operation is conducted with such care to avoid unnecessary suffering or even inconvenience to the animal, that it frequently goes to sleep on the table and does not evince any pain. Two agents for the prevention of cruelty to animals recently visited the place, and after seeing the whole process declared themselves satisfied that no cruelty was inflicted. The ivory points, after being charged and becoming dry, are carefully placed, ten in a bunch, and wound with cotton fiber. Then white paper is wrapped around them, and lastly rubber-tissue, which is tied at the end, producing a water-tight and air-tight package. These, then, are packed in any desired quantity, and shipped to all orders.

A California Santa Claus in New York.

The New York Sun narrates the following: On Christmas Eve, Wm. M. Lent, a San Francisco capitalist, now visiting this city, started out for a stroll to see New York by gaslight, and drifting into Grand street, his attention became attracted by the wistful glances of a group of ragged urchins who were covetously contemplating the tempting array of toys spread out in a bright glare of one of the show windows near the corner of Allen street. His heart was touched, and drawing near unobserved, he stopped and listened. The boys were descanting with earnestness on the merits of the different articles on exhibition, and singing out with enthusiasm such toys as they severally preferred. Without a word Mr. Lent slipped quickly past them into the store and purchased every toy he had heard the children mention, the group of waifs meanwhile gazing at him through the window with admiring eyes. When he came out again his arms were full of playthings. He approached the astonished boys and handed each the gun or drum, or bugle, wagon, sleigh or hobby horse, which a few moments before had been the special object of his unattainable ambition. Then leaving them in a stupor over their unexpected good fortune, he dashed into the crowd and sauntered on until he came upon another group in front of another store, when he repeated his deed of Christian charity. From one group to another did the good representative of Santa Claus glide, making every childish heart glow with delight. Five hundred dollars melted away between 8 and 11 o'clock P. M., and Mr. Lent's last dollar would probably have found its way into the pockets of the storekeepers but for the small army which grew at his heels, clamoring out fervent "Thank you, sir?" and "God bless you sir!" Unable to bear the load of gratitude which was accumulating on his shoulders he hurried to the Bowery and took refuge in a passing car, which bore him to his hotel.

THE latest curiosity of life insurance is that the existence of Mr. P. S. Gilmore has been insured for $200,000 in fifteen different offices, by the guarantors of the Boston, jubilee fund, the policies to run for six months. This is the handsomest testimonial which Mr. Gilmore has ever received—all the gold-headed canes and pieces of plate in the world would be nothing to it, for it is a simple admission of the fact that without him the monster fete could not go on at all. No Gilmore, no jubilee! Under such circumstances, the least that he can do for half a year to come is to look well to the soles of his boots, to be careful how he changes his flannel in the spring, and to suffer no considerations of expenses to limit him in the purchase of umbrellas.

MELANGE.

PAREPA celebrated her wooden wedding at the Continental Hotel, in Philadelphia, on Monday.

"COLFAX has given up smoking," says the Boston Post, "but Wilson still clings to the stump."

AT Mackinaw, whenever the Good Templars have a ball, the rival organization of Good Tipplars also provides a dance, and earnestly press tickets upon the good-natured public.

A NEW YORK bride fainted away at her wedding reception on discovering that she had lost the pendant of her diamond necklace on the way home from church. A glass of the "ruby" restored her.

PRINCE Johann Schwartzenberg offers 1,000 florins for the best beet root sugar to be sent to the Vienna Exposition in 1873; believing probably, with Polonius, that if a man beet root himself, he cannot then be false to anybody else.—N. Y. World.

ON Saturday evening, in Rochester, N. Y., George Wetzel shot and killed himself all for love of Elizabeth Steinhauser, who did not delight in his society. A will in his pocket left everything, including his tooth pick and revolver, by name, to his cruel lady love.

THE local editor of the Mobile Register bashfully chronicles the fact that while sitting abaft of a lady whose dress was somewhat disarranged, he had his attention attracted to her "bustle," and, being blessed with strong optics, was enabled to read nearly the whole of a double-leaded editorial therein.

A VERY simple device has been suggested by French ingenuity for perpetuating the ill-feeling which is one of the legacies of war. It is proposed that all documents connected with new taxes shall be endorsed with "Expenses of the war against Prussia, 1870-1871;" and is said that the Assembly approves the suggestion.

IN imitation of the Vienna Lady Orchestra, which last year made a tour through the United States, a "Berlin Lady Orchestra," consisting of forty five eminent lady artists, will start about the 15th of March for New York. Efforts are being made to induce Pauline Lucca, the great Berlin prima donna, to accompany the troupe.

THE assets of the Eagle Cotton Manufacturing Company, at Columbus, Georgia, aggregate $1,613,746 and the liabilities, exclusive of capital stock, $159,419. The year's profits were $204,327 35, subject, however, to a deduction of $19,778 44 on account of interest. These profits have arisen from six months full work with unskilled labor.

A FIRM in Sheffield, England, have just succeeded in rolling the largest armor plates ever made. The plates are intended to protect the turrets of the great war ship Devastation, which is being built at Portsmouth. Each plate weighs twenty-four tons, and measures twenty feet in length, nine feet in breadth and eight inches in thickness.

THE London News has an article showing some of Dickens' earlier works—such as "Pickwick," or "Nicholas Nickleby," or "Oliver Twist"—are already becoming antiques, and that the readers of the next generation will find difficulty in comprehending the meaning of those unrivalled pictures of London life. The News thinks a Dickens concordance will be necessary in a few years.

Mr. RYAN, of Melbourne, fell from a great height in a lonely place and broke his leg. No one was in the vicinity, and the case would have seemed hopeless to most men; but Ryan resolutely went to work as his own doctor and nurse, set the limb, bound it and subsisted on oysters and rain water for twelve days until some one chanced to pass by, and rescued him from his unpleasant predicament.

A NEW YORK Sunday paper says that New York is seeing the last of the old Wallack's Theatre Company. With the close of the present season that institution will cease to exist. Mr. Wallack has disposed of his interest to Mr. Sothern, who intends "taking hold" in October, and running "David Garrick" for an indefinite time. Various members of the present Wallackian troupe will join Mr. Daly's company. Among these are Mr. Rockwell, Mr. Stoddard and Mr. Fisher.

A BRUTAL murder was committed about nine miles west of Auburn, Schuylkill county, on the line of the Schuylkill and Susquehanna Railroad, and in the heart of a fine farming region, on Sunday night. A farmer named Daniel Kramer, sixty years old, was beaten to death with a club, and his wife so terribly bruised that no hopes of her recovery are entertained. The house was robbed, showing that plunder was the cause of the terrible act.

TEN or fifteen years ago a public dinner was given to the members of the Legislature at Providence, and a Narragansett preacher, called the "Regular Pacer," because in his prayers he had a habit of standing behind a chair, stepping backwards and hitching it after him, was called on to ask a blessing. He stood up in his usual style and began a lengthy prayer. There was an open door behind him, and he soon unwittingly backed into an adjoining room, taking his chair along, when some one softly closed the door, and the hungry guests proceeded to dine, when the petition was finished at leisure by the abstracted minister.

GENERALLY, it is mournful to say sons-in-law quarrel with mothers in-law, which much disturbs the harmony of some domestic circles. A youth in Syracuse has so far departed from the rule, as to fall in love with his step mother, and, moreover, she has run away with her, taking also, to pay traveling expenses, some $500 of his papa's money. This amorous gentleman has hardly improved on the old custom of staying at home, and quarreling all the time with the second mamma. In this case it is a peculiar fact that though somewhat surprised by the proceedings, the old gentleman declines to pursue the errant pair. A wise old gentleman!

WHEN Achille Murat settled down on a plantation in Jefferson county, Florida, it was said that one morning, while with coat off, he was washing his face on the piazza, plantation fashion, a "cracker" rode up on a mule and accosted him with, "Stranger, they say thar's a king living about here somewhar, and I've cum ten miles jest a purpose to see him. Whar mought he be?" "Why," says the prince, "I must be the man they mean." "What! you a king?" exclaimed the cracker; "a gol darned purty looking king you are! Why stranger, I could rough a better looking king out'n of a pine stump, with a club ax;" and so saying he moved off in disgust.

A GANG of burglars met with a singular mishap in Manchester, Ohio, a few nights since. Eleven in number they went at midnight to rob the First National Bank. Entering the building with a false key they proceeded to open the door of the safe with powder. While lighting the fuse a spark fell upon a keg of powder which they had brought, and an explosion of unexpected proportions speedily followed. Two men were killed outright, and another had a leg fearfully mangled. The others escaped, but all except two of them have since been captured. With one exception the burglars were residents of the county, where for seven years they have been committing depredations.

"THE Northwest Davenport Cow-Pasturing Society" has filed its constitution in the Recorder's office. By it every member agrees to let is cow be sold at auction if his land-rent is not paid within five days after each regular meeting. No member can resign before the end of a year unless he obtains a successor for his cow in the cow-pasture. If a member's cow takes a contagious disease, its owner shall remove it, and furnish another cow in its place. There are 36 members of the organization. Their regular meetings occur on the last Sundays in February, June, and October. They are to employ a herdsman, who is to drive the cows to pasture, and return at night. This man is to receive a comfortable salary.

AN OLD GENTLEMAN, with several suspiciously red spots on his face, entered a West End street car, a few days since, and quietly took the only seat that was vacant. An inquisitive chap asked him if he had had the small-pox, and he said "yes." There was a general scramble among the passengers; all of whom wanted to get out right there, and in about a minute the old gentleman had the car to himself. The conductor, cautiously peeping in, demanded how long it was since the afflicted individual had recovered. "Well, sir," replied the victim of the disease, "I cannot say exactly, but as near as I can recollect, it was about thirty-five years ago."—[Rough Rice's Reporter.

THE N. Y. Tribune says: It is asserted that the Hotel Dieu, the New half-finished hospital in Paris, in the construction of which the late Empress was warmly interested, and upon which millions of francs have been expended, is built without regard for and in opposition to hygenic principles; and, in consequence, several wings of the structure must be pulled down. How absurd! If we in the United States make such a blunder as this, do we think it necessary to alter the position of one single brick? Not at all. The architect publishes a card, all the attending doctors prepare elaborate statements, all the trustees send communications to the newspapers; and thus it is proved that the aspersed building is one of the best constructed in the world.

PIER, DANNALS & CO.'S ALE has won a wide reputation for its elegant flavor, brilliant color, and beautiful white cream. Their bottled ales are equal to English and Scotch. S:T:TH.

GOLD closed in New York on yesterday at 110@110¼.

ON MONDAY next the GAZETTE will appear in an entire new dress, and greatly enlarged. Our present size has been found to be inadequate to accommodate our growing business, and at the same time permit us to give more than the usual amount of reading matter.

THE HOUSE has passed the bill, authorizing an election of a successor to David Stanton, deceased, Auditor General elect. Under this law the incumbent will hold over until the first Monday in December, and the election to fill the vacancy will occur at the regular annual election in October. The election returns will be opened on the first Tuesday after the election. This effectually provides for a contingency, similar to that which arose from the death of the Auditor General elect Stanton, and will probably pass the Senate without amendment.

IT HAVING appeared that a number of New York importers were engaged in smuggling goods and defrauding the national revenue, some two weeks since, the Attorney General of the United States instructed the District Attorney in New York to examine such cases as might come under his notice, and prosecute all importers who had given rewards and bribes to the officers of customs, or had in any way been defrauding the Government. This, in the opinion of the New York World, is all wrong. That journal believes that importers should be allowed to bribe officers, smuggle goods, or do any thing and every thing by which they can fill their coffers and rob the nation. This is a species of morality that we do not wonder to see advocated in a journal which endorses all the municipal corruption with which New York has been reeking for years under Tammany rule.

IT APPEARS that Mr. George O. Evans, our late State agent, who is again a fugitive from justice, with his confederates attempted to raise a "hue and cry" against Auditor General Hartranft and State Treasurer Mackey, hoping thereby to turn the tide of public indignation from himself, or failing in that to hold his accusations over their heads, as a threat, to prevent their exposition of his misdeeds. The game would not work. Messrs. Hartranft and Mackey court the fullest investigations into their official acts, and promise to furnish all the evidence that may be required of them. Mr. Evans and his guilty accomplices will be followed to the bitter end, and every day that they postpone their examination, only adds to the public conviction of their guilt. We are sorry to find such a respectable paper as the New York Tribune giving aid and comfort to a self-convicted criminal, particularly since it has enlisted under the banner of "reform."

THE AMENDMENT of Senator Harlan to the arms investigation bill, authorising the committee to "inquire whether any American Senator or citizen has been in unauthorized communication or collusion with the agents of any foreign power," is a fitting rebuke to those gentlemen who have been so extraordinarily anxious to convict the United States Govenment of a violation of international law. It will look badly for Senators Sumner and Schurz, if it shall be proven that they are using their high positions in the interest of a foreign power, to criminate our Government. There is a penalty on the statute books for such work, and we hope, if they be found guilty, that it will be applied. As we remarked before, their labors would come with better grace, if they were members of the German Reichstag, instead of United States Senators. When the final vote came, Mr. Sumner was compelled by his self-respect, to vote against the vile preamble, which adjudged the nation guilty without trial. His position is truly a humiliating one. He could not sustain his own unpatriotic offspring.

YESTERDAY MORNING Mr. Henry Lambert, for many years past our efficient County Controller vacated that office, having declined a re-election, and his successor Mr. Henry Warner entered upon the discharge of his duties. Mr. Lambert's administration of the affairs of the Controller's office has been so often and cordially endorsed by his fellow citizens, that it is unnecessary for us to assure him that he has the confidence of the entire community. The best hope that we can utter for his accomplished and talented successor is, that he may meet with the same uniform success that has marked every act of his predecessor, and from our knowledge of him, we feel sure that he will do so.

To day Major Denniston also retires from the County Treasurership, where by close attention and successful management he has earned for himself nothing but good words. It is to his credit that the present law placing the daily treasury balances on interest was enacted, as he proposed it to the Legislature some time ago and urged its passage. Captain Samuel Kilgore, the Treasurer elect, takes charge of the office to-day, and we feel that in him the county has secured a competent and reliable officer.

THE SOUTHERN PEOPLE may delight in the pleasure of being tickled with straws, but their risibles can hardly withstand such a terrible quantity of flattery as The South, a new and creditable journal devoted to Southern interests, and published in New York, stops to give them. If the tribute is deserved, many people have long entertained false notions of the average Southern character, and in order to correct the estimate in which it is held, we reproduce the morsel, only suggesting that the gushing writer had no intention of condemning his friends with faint praise:

The Southern people are eminently conservative. They are not easily led to extremes in politics, religion, social customs, or modes of action. They do not readily take up with the transcendental style of thought which in higher law doctrines, spiritualism, woman's rights, or communistic funeral processions. Southern society is elevated, refined, harmonious, compact. It is not the coarse, loose, uncultivated and insecure thing which its ignorant enemies have so often delighted to represent it. We speak, of course, of what is understood universally in all communities, of the real timber of society, that by which a people should rightly be judged. In this respect the Southern people may well rest satisfied in comparison with other sections of our country. They may not, indeed, have advanced so far, if it be desirable to do so, in many of the arts of living, as have those of more Northern latitudes; for many of these very arts, while presenting all the attractions of a splendidly superficial civilization, are but the whited sepulchres which conceal the rottenness within. But in that refinement and cultivation which is born of honesty of character and goodness of heart the genuine Southerner has no superior and but few equals. Frank, openhearted and generous, honest by instinct and education, he is as constant and true in his friendship as he is earnest and outspoken in his enmities. Such people are not given to misrepresentation of themselves in the eyes of others. They are easily and quickly known, and are ready to respond to similar sentiments in others.

ART.

Pennsylvania has the proud honor of maintaining the noblest Academy of Fine Art in the western continent, one that rivals in importance the most celeberated repositories of old Europe. Its establishment, some sixty-six years ago, in the then young and blushing city of Philadelphia, marked an era in the history of art on this side of the Atlantic. It gave encouragement to struggling artists, and made a home for them to which they could turn in the hour of need for the exposition and sale of their handi-work. It afforded ample opportunity for the development of the talent of the young, becoming the Alma Mater and patroness of many of the finest artists that have graced our history as a nation. It was a wise forethought of those early pioneers of art to erect such an institution, and though its infancy was marked by poverty and trouble, its present condition is one of immense influence. Few art institutes of the world are upon more solid foundation in a pecuniary point of view. That it has exerted great influence for the betterment and elevation of the society of the city that has the honor of containing it, cannot be denied. Just in proportion as art is encouraged, the wicked propensities of human nature decrease. In the contemplation of a fine sketch in colors, wrought by the hand of a soul endowed fellow being, or the graceful statue chiseled from cold marble nigh unto the expression of life itself, there is more sermonizing than is ever heard from the pulpit. A people devoted to art may be wicked in other respects, but it is not the fault of their devotion. They would be more rudish in their crimes if art never found a place in their hearts. We hold that it is not only graceful but philanthropic in a community to lend encouragement to artists and to foster art in whatever shape it may be recognized. In so doing vice is more or less checked and common humanity more or less ennobled and elevated.

THE OHIO IMPROVEMENT.

EDITORS GAZETTE: The leading editorial in yesterday's GAZETTE, on the subject of "The late Convention for the Improvement of the Ohio River," is so full of truth and valuable suggestions that our "coal kings," and every advocate of cheaper transportation, should take it to heart. The very fact that there are so many independent boat owners, rivalling and trying to beat each other all the time, is convincing evidence of the public character of the subject, and the need there is of Government interposing in behalf of her naughty children. Our river men are not much better, in some respects, than the Western Indians, who complain greatly of their grievances—how they are robbed and "made drunk" by white men; but still persist in ruining themselves by their own quarrels. Our river men can unite on no plan of action for improvement, because they feel that their investments generally in river navigation are not of a permanent character, each one's profits depending on temporary arrangements.

Some men along the New York and Erie Canal, who had largely invested in small canal boats, could not stand the change to the enlarged canal—and accordingly opposed its improvement, but wisely the State and the people moved in the matter and had the work done. The demand for coal from the lower cities is even now greater than our Pittsburgh coal men can supply in some years. How do they expect to supply the future? A reporter who lately interviewed a "coal man"—a big lump doubtless—says in one of the evening papers, that Mr. coal man has calculated that with locks and dams in the river the cost of taking coal to Cincinnati would be too great—and coal men say such an improvement would be fatal to the river commerce. Locks and dams on the Monongahela it appears then, should have proved fatal to the coal trade, come Mr. coal man that won't do. Besides the dams in the Ohio would have wide chutes navigable for coal boat fleets at the ordinary stages in which they now run. Double tracking the Pennsylvania Railroad was fatal to its business? and they propose to "kill it deader" by the construction of two more tracks.

The improvement of the Ohio is demanded by the western public, even if it does (and it probably will not) prove fatal to some particular interest. But at the same time it must be confessed, there is no chance for improvement if we wait for Congress to do the work. The plan you have proposed of interesting first our State Legislators, and next to be followed by the cities and towns, and corporations, until the project looks respectable before the nation, so that Congress can ultimately aid in and direct, is the only plan likely to succeed. But they didn't even pass round the hat in the Cincinnati Convention.

NEW BOOKS.

A LEAF IN THE STORM and other stories, by Ouida. Philadelphia: J. B. Lippincott & Co.; Pittsburgh: R. S. Davis & Co., 175 Liberty street. The great trouble with Ouida has always been that her manner was so charming while her matter was often immoral, demoralizing and even bad. We regard some of her books as among the most baneful that are awarded places on the shelves of household libraries, and utterly unfit to be read. These, however, are the earlier novels, the present little volume being a collection of four idyls, fascinatingly narrated. One of them, called "A Provence Rose, is a beautiful poem, a sad and lovely picture from the life of the virtuous poor of Paris.

BITS OF TRAVEL, by H. H. Boston. J. R. Osgood & Co. Pittsburgh: R. S. Davis & Co. We suppose that this is as perfectly fresh and inviting as a book of European travel can be now a days. The author has seen with her own eyes, and succeeds in preserving her identity admirably in the narration of what she has seen. Her Tyrolean letters have never been, to our knowledge, surpassed. Every one who has traveled will appreciate the book, because of its accuracy, and those who have not will enjoy it because they can't help themselves.

CAN THE OLD LOVE? A novel by Zadel Barnes Buddington. Boston, J. R. Osgood & Co; Pittsburgh: R. S. Davis & Co. A modern novel nicely printed and woefully illustrated, written to prove, what few persons have ever doubted, that people are capable of loving after the heyday of youth has past. The most remarkable thing about the book is the name of the author.

THE LITTLE MOORLAND PRINCESS From the German of E. Marlitt by Mrs. A. L. Wister. Philadelphia: J. B. Lippincott & Co; Pittsburgh: R. S. Davis & Co.——Less deep than Auerbach, less philosophical than Spielhagen, less trashy than Muehlbach, the author of The Old Mamselle's Secret is certainly the most popular of German writers of fiction, with American readers, and we think deservedly so. We can not say that the book before us is the best of her works but we do not consider that it is excelled by any of them. It is good, pleasant, fresh and entertaining reading, and is rendered into excellent English, of course, because Mrs. Wister is simply perfect as a translator.

OUR ENGLISH BIBLE AND ITS ANCESTORS by Rev. Treadwell Walden. Philadelphia: Porter and Coates; Pittsburgh: R. S. Davis & Co. This is an entertaining narrative of the struggle which preceeded the successful introduction and popularization of the Bible into English. It is well told by the Rector of the Episcopal Cathedral at Indianapolis, Bishop Upfold's church.

VENETIA TRELAWNEY, or the fourth series of the Mysteries of the Court of London, by George W. M Reynolds, Philadelphia: T. B. Peterson & Bros. This is more than four hundred pages of worse than trash. Professing to be an imitation of Eugene Sue's Mysteries of Paris, it claims to prove that the court of George the Third out-heroded that of Louis XV, in profligacy. The author has all of the prolixity and none of the genius of Sue, while his tastes are as depraved and his characters as vile, as those of the French author. We trust that its formidable size will deter those from reading it who might otherwise be tempted to do so, and we have no hesitation in saying that its publication in no way reflects credit on its publishers.

THE THEOLOGY OF THE NEW TESTAMENT. By the Rev. J. J. Van Oosterzee, D. D. New York: Dodd & Mead. Pittsburgh: for sale by R. S. Davis & Co. This valuable work, which is translated from the Dutch by Maurice J. Evans, M. A., is rather a Hand-book of the New Testament than a system of divinity. The learned author, who is Professor of Theology in the University of Utrecht, prepared the volume for the use of the students in his own classes. The arrangement of the work is good, and its statements are clear and easily understood. Although it is necessarily historic rather than dogmatic or didactic, in the technical sense of that word, he who reads it carefully may become a good Biblical scholar. Every theological student will find it a valuable compendium of New Testament Theology, but it will be of good advantage to Sabbath School teachers, and all others who wish to study the sacred scriptures with profit.

MAGAZINES.

Old and New, for March, though of course good, does not seem to be quite equal to the best of its predecessors. A comparison of Washington and Grant is its most remarkable article and The Vicar's Daughter by George MacDonald, Ups and Downs by Edward Everett Hale, and that singular story Six of One by Half a Dozen of the Other, are all continued. There are besides, the usual number of short articles and poems and the capital critical department.

The Contemporary Review—The February number of this republication does not cause us to regret having said that we considered it the best of reviews; it contains seven excellent papers on various subjects. Perhaps the most interesting to American readers is that on Henry Ward Beecher by the Rev. H. R. Haweis, but, Fenianism, by One Who Knows. Dr. Newman's Essays by the Rev. E. S. Ffoulkes and Rationalism and Ritualism in the light of recent ecclestical decisions, by the Rev. John Hunt have also a cis-atlantic interest, as, indeed the others have, too, in a general way. The Contemporary is, without doubt, the most scholarly of the periodical publications of Lippincott & Co.

The Eclectic Magazine—The March number is a good one, the leading article is an essay on Mahomet from the British Quarterly, and is admirable. Then there are fine selections from The Contemporary, Fortnightly and Popular Science Reviews, and from Macmillin's, Frazer's Blackwood's, Chamber's and Cornhill magazines, and Temple Bar, London Society and Good Words. A good steel engraving of Herbert Spencer is given as frontispiece. The History of a Phaeton, by Wm. Black, is begun as a serial in this number.

St. Paul's.—The February number, the second since Lippincott undertook its republication, is before us, and does credit to the judgment of those gentlemen in selecting it for reproduction in America. It contains continuations of Hawthorne's Septimius and Jean Ingelow's Off the Skelligs, Thoughts on reading the life of Charles Dickens, by Robert Buchanan, The Duke of Argyll, by Henry Holbeach, Our Account with Posterity, by Matthew Browne, Snobbery as a National Characteristic, by T. Adolphus Trollope, and several other articles.

RELIGIOUS INTELLIGENCE.

A number of valuable papers have recently appeared in the Christian Advocate, the oldest and most widely circulated of any of the Methodist papers, published at New York, upon the "Dangers of Methodism," in which the dangers of fine churches, fine ministers, &c., have been shown up in a striking light. This series is from the pen of C. C. North, Esq., a layman of the Church, formerly the editor of a New York daily, and now President of the Asbury Life Insurance Company, New York city. The articles have been largely quoted, and commended for their ability. This week's article is chiefly devoted to "Disrespect." First, it is seen in the relations between children and parents; second, this disrespect is seen practically in the relations between members and pastors; third, disrespect for equals, as well as superiors, is another of the growing dangers of Methodism. The points presented apply equally to members and ministers of all denominations. In the second division of the subject, it is shown that the broad distinctions once existing between minister and people are in these days well nigh abolished. In olden time, the presence of the minister in the house was a rebuke to frivolous conduct and sinful levity. It is argued that this want of respect may arise from the close conformity to worldly customs which sink the minister or the shrewd trader in horses, lands or stock. It may arise from his frivolities, which bring him down to the level of the least influential layman of his charge. Or it may arise from participating in the bad habits of his lay brethren in the use of tobacco, thus setting a pernicious example to young men. It is well known that many persons think that when a man consecrates himself to the full work of the ministry, that he has no right to become interested in a wordly business, either as a partner or manager of institutions. Others think differently, as the presence of ministers in business firms and institutions amply demonstrate. Mr. North says when the membership see a minister charged with certain things, ascend the pulpit they think of the last sharp bargain he drove, of the last jest which shook their sides, of the last convival gathering in the smoke room of some brethren's house, and ask, how can there be reverence for his person or office? Cheerfulness and sauviety of manners are commended, but conformity to the maxims and habits of the least pious of the congregation is rebuked.

Bishop Simpson is presiding over the Baltimore Conference, now in session at Baltimore. Next Wednesday he will open the West Virginia Conference, which meets at Wheeling, West Virginia., and on the 13th of this month he will preside over the Pittsburgh Conference, which commences its session that day in North Avenue church, Allegheny City.

It is estimated over one hundred thousand dollars has been collected toward the erection of a church on Fifth avenue, New York, for Rev. Mr. Hepworth, late of the Unitarian Church.

According to recent statistics, the membership of the Protestant Episcopal Church in this country is 225,000. The increase the past year is twenty-five thousand.

Dr. Bellows, at a recent Unitarian Conference said, it was not easy to maintain their position as a Church, although easy enough to maintain it as an influence. He thought they could wait God's time for the rapid and wide extension of their ranks. His only solicitude was to keep the quality of their faith and work pure.

Nearly one thousand students, attending Baptist educational institutions in this country, are professed Christians, and of this number, over five hundred are preparing for the ministry of this Church.

Bishop Neely, of the Episcopal Diocese of Maine, announced that all of the churches in his diocese but two follow the free seat system.

Recent statistics of the Orthodox Friends, the first attempt for a long period show, that the total membership in the United States 57,405, a gain of 755 over the numbers comprised in the yearly meetings existing twenty years ago. During this period there has been a decrease of the membership of these meetings in the East, while those of the West have increased.

In a recent sermon of Rev. Mr. Hepworth, he defined "Religion as the science of leaning on Christ." Zion's Herald of Boston indorses the sentiment, and says: Lean, lean, hard.

From a table of statistics it is stated the contributions to the Missionary cause of the Methodist Episcopal Church in 1860 were $236 269 21, and in 1871 $637,985 79. Since 1866 the average yearly increase was over $100,000.

It has been ascertained that the average age of the clergymen, who died in this country last year, was a fraction over sixty-one years. No wonder Life Insurance Companies are willing to insure clergymen at a somewhat lower premium than members of other professions.

Reports made to the annual meeting of the American Tract Society, recently held in Washington City, show the receipts were $109,321, and expenditures, $113 068 Expenses of administration and collections are met from other sources.

The receipts of the Presbyterian Board of Home Missions, for eleven months of the fiscal year have been about $280,000, which is nearly $100,000, less than the General Assembly recommended to the churches to raise for that purpose. The Presbyterian urges collections with well timed words.

A gracious work of revival prevails in Hamilton, New York. Over forty students attending the Baptist Seminary have been converted, leaving only five in the institution who have not made a profession of faith.

Rev. Edward Kenney, of the Protestant Episcopal Church, not long since baptized the child of an overseer in Cuba, near Havana. It is said this is the first Protestant baptism of an infant that has ever taken place on the island.

Dr. Cuyler in a note to the Independent declares that he stands "more stanchly than ever" to his defence made before the the Brooklyn Presbytery in regard to pious women preaching the gospel. Dr. Patterson, of Chicago, denounces the thing as an inovation in the Presbyterian Church.

The Rev. Robert Collyer Mistaken for Judge Carpenter, of South Carolina.

The Rev. Robert Collyer lectured in Masonic Hall, Manchester, N. H., on Friday evening. He came in late to the hall with a broad smile on his face, and when he explained, the audience smiled also. He said he had met with difficulties since his arrival in Manchester. When he reached the Manchester House he found no lecture committee, but learned the chairman had been there in search of him. So he directed the hackman to drive him to the lecture hall. Arrived at the hall, he found no committee to greet him, but an immense audience; even the aisles were packed. But he had never before had an audience who kept their hats on. He made his way to the platform, and the audience looked at him, evidently thinking he was somebody. He looked at them, and thought it was the most remarkable lyceum audience he ever saw. The female portion looked as if they were natives of Ireland, and the men looked as if they came from the same country, too. Presently several gentlemen came and took seats on the platform, one or two nodding to him. Then one got up to introduce the speaker, but did not mention his name. He said he was a resident of South Carolina, and Mr. Collyer began to think he did not mean him; but when he said he would address them upon the unadvisability of re electing President Grant, he was sure of it. He then made his escape as soon as possible, was met by the lecture committee and escorted to the right hall.

Death of a New York Passenger on the Blockaded Central Pacific Trains.

[From the San Francisco Bulletin, Feb. 21.]

In Monday's Bulletin we alluded to sickness among the blockaded passengers, and mentioned the case of a gentleman who arrived at the Lick House in an emaciated condition. Investigation shows that this case, one of the most remarkable on record, has been attended with fatal results. Mr. Browers, the gentleman in question, was attacked by erysipelas some ten days ago, and, owing to the privations and exposure of the snow drifts, suffered terrible anguish, and, though a large and powerful man when in good health, was reduced by disease to a mere skeleton. He intended to visit the Sandwich Islands, where his daughter, Mrs. Simmons, was residing, and, desiring to give her a pleasant surprise, he sent no notification of the projected visit. In the meantime the daugher left the islands, arrived at San Francisco en route for the East, and here awaited the raising of the snow blockade. While reading the evening paper, the name of a sick gentleman caught her eye. She hastened to the hotel—to the bedside of her father—and remained there until his death, at ten o'clock the next morning. Mr. Browers was a New York merchant, though what special business he was engaged in we have not been able to learn. He was universally respected by the passengers, who knew him only as a companion on the journey.

KINDNESS TO KINDRED.

Want of the necessary means to supply the necessities which usually press upon people in the more moderate walks of life, may be an excuse for neglecting a disease which, like consumption, has often in times past been esteemed as incurable. But the common ties of nature, which ought to bind man to his own, overleap all these barriers in the estimation of right-thinking people; and when we see a medicine like Dr. Keyser's Lung Cure curing hundreds of people all around us, we feel it not only a pleasure, but a duty to point out to our readers such a valuable acquisition to medical knowledge. In the earlier stages of lung disease Dr. Keyser's Lung Cure is a specific. The cough and chill, the sputa streaked with blood, all give place to that healthy equilibrium of the circulation which is induced by that all-powerful remedy; and every bit of peccant and disorganizing material is expelled from the blood, and removed from the system by the natural ducts and excretory organs of the body. The tens of thousands of lungs clogged with mucus and seething with corruption can be made to perform the office of respiration by a timely use of Dr Keyser's Lung Cure. AGGRAVATED INDIGESTION.

Persons who are predisposed to dyspepsia, find their sufferings from this cause greatly aggravated by damp weather, easterly winds, and sudden changes from a mild to a chilling atmosphere. In the spring, therefore, the pangs of indigestion are seriously augmented by the atmospheric variations peculiar to the season, and it is incumbent upon all who desire to pass through the ordeal of its cold mists and insalubrious gales with easy stomachs, and untormented by the indescribable torments which accompany dyspepsia, to tone and strengthen the digestive organs with a healthful and effective vegetable invigorant; and no one at all familiar with the medical record of the age can question for one moment that Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is the Tonic best adapted to this purpose.

The credentials of the Great Restorative are unequalled in number and character by those of any other advertised medicine in the world. If ever there was a preparation to rank as a National Remedy, this wonderful specific has a fair claim to the title. For a period of twenty years it has literally been the Champion Tonic and Alterative on this side of the Atlantic. In popularity it has never been approached by any of its would-be competitors, and its annual sales are so far in advance of those of any other medicine of its class, that comparisons would be ridiculous. One of two conclusions is inevitable. Either the American people are deficient in common sense, and incapable of rational discrimination, or Hostetter's Bitters is the best preventive remedy for indigestion, fever and ague, bilious remittent fever, constipation, rheumatism, nervous complaints, and all mal dies of an epidemic or an endemic type. The reader will judge for himself which of the two conclusions is most consistent with fact and reason.

A BRIEF letter from Dorchester, Mass., to the Boston Advertiser, tells the following:

"There are in this town two twin brothers, whose resemblance to each other is so strong that strangers can hardly tell them apart. They keep a grocery and provision "store," and were one day bringing in bags of meal from a wagon, which was out of sight from inside the store. Nathan had his coat on, but Eli was in his shirt-sleeves, A stranger in the shop watched them coming in and going out one after the other, but only one was visible at a time, and at last he exclaimed to Eli, "Well, you're the smartest man I ever saw; but why do you keep putting on and taking off your coat." These brothers and several other men were in the habit of getting up very early and going to swim in the "Reservoir Pond," and once Eli going, as was his wont, to Nathan's house, to call him, by tapping on the pane, saw his own face reflected from the glass, and taking it for his brother, called out, 'Come on; they're all waiting for you.'"

—A decided difference of opinion exists at present among the importers and dealers in tea and coffee, regarding the proposed removal of the duties on those articles, according to the bill now pending in Congress. At a recent meeting of the Board of Trade, a petition was drawn up, to be sent to Congress, urging that body to be quick in its action, inasmuch as delay paralyzed trade, and also that any action, whatever it might be, should be made immediately operative. This petition was only adopted after a lengthy discussion, for many of the members present held that the rapid depreciation in the value of stocks, caused by a sudden abatement of duties, would prove ruinous to many. The importers, who have their goods in bond and only pay the duties and withdraw them when they are required, are of the opinion that the trade would be benefited by immediate action. They hold that the present uncertainty, regarding what may be done, has a very depressing influence, which would only be continued, if any time is allowed between the passage of the act and its ultimate operation. The grocers, on the other hand, contend that most of them at present have heavy stocks on hand, upon which the duties are paid, and that even a partial abatement of the tariff would entail upon them a heavy loss. They also ask that Congress take prompt action, but, that at least ninety days shall be allowed to intervene between the passage of the act and the time it shall take effect. Agreeably to these opinions the grocers have prepared a separate petition, in which they urge that any sudden action would be to the advantage of a few at the expense of the many. This second petition states that the one adopted by the Board of Trade represents only the importers of New York, Baltimore, Boston and New Orleans, whereas theirs has a national character, as it represents the grocery trade of the whole country. This petition will be extensively circulated for signatures.—N. Y. Bulletin.

—The Philadelphia Ledger of Thursday says: Money is in active demand on call to first-class parties at 6½@7 per cent. though the banks very nearly satisfy their customers. On the street 7½@8 per cent. is the current rate for best names, and there is a close scrutiny of offerings. There is some negotiation of paper within the extremes of 8 and 10 per cent. Inferior paper is placed with much difficulty, and only at high rates. The supply is still ample for the requirements of business, and the demand is sufficient to sustain rates with a good degree of firmness.

NEW YORK, March 1, 1872.

Gold firmer at 110½@110⅜. Loans were made from 2 to 5 per cent. for carrying. Clearances $46,000,000. Governments quiet and steady. Stocks opened tame; market alternately weak and firm; the feature was Pacific Mail, which ranged between 60⅜ and 61, closing at the latter price. Erie active and sold up to 33⅜; market at the close was strong—the features being North-west, Erie and Pacific Mail. From to-day there will be no quotations for Mariposa, as the privilege of converting the old into new stock has expired. Money continues stringent; at the close 7 gold and 1-32 commission was bid. The prospect of the cancellation of the remaining 3 per cent. certificates creates an uneasy feeling in financial circles. The bank statement, it is feared, will be unfavorable. State bonds are dull.

PITTSBURGH MARKETS.

OFFICE OF THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE, FRIDAY, March 1, 1872.

ASHES—Common Soda Ash, 5⅜; refined, (high test) 6; Nitrate Soda, 5⅜; Pots, 10; Pearls, 11 cts.

APPLE BUTTER—Sales of fair to good at 60@65, and prime to choice at 70@75.

APPLES—Firm, and, with a continued good demand, prices higher; we now quote at $4@5 for fair to good, and $5⅜ for choice.

BUTTER—There is a steady demand for the better grades, and the supply is light; common butter, however, is very dull. Prime to choice is selling readily at 25@28.

BROOM CORN—Is quiet and unchanged; small sales within the range of 6@9 cts.

BRANS—In fair demand and with a limited supply prices are steady but unchanged; $2@2,50 per bushel, according to quality.

BUCKWHEAT FLOUR—4 cts per lb.

CRANBERRIES—Sales at $12@17 per bbl, as to quality—the outside figure for Sackett's.

COUNTRY LARD—Sales at 8⅜@9⅜ cts.

CONCENTRATED LYE—$6 per case.

CANDLES—Mould, 12; Star, 20.

CARBON OIL—Is dull but nominally unchanged; 19⅜@20 cts, by the car load—2@3 cts additional for small lots.

CHEESE—Is firm, and the stock in this market is unusually light and prices, in consequence, are tending upward: we continue to quote, in a jobbing way, at 17⅜@18 for Goshen; 16⅜@17 for Factory, and 14@15 for Dairy. The most of the Dairy offering is inferior in quality.

CANNED GOODS—Generally reported firm, but the demand, as yet, is only fair, and prices are unchanged. Peaches, $6@7 per case; Tomatoes, $4,25@4,50; Corn, $6.50@7.

DRIED FRUIT—There is a slight improvement in the demand for Peaches, but prices are unchanged; sales, in a jobbing way, at 10@10⅜ for halves; 8@8⅜ for mixed, and 7@7⅜ for quarters. Apples firm and in steady demand at 8@8⅜ for fair to good, and 9 for choice. There is usually a much greater difference between the value of Peaches and Apples, and the inference is that the former must go higher or the latter lower. Pitted Cherries, 28@30; unpitted, 8@10. Blackberries, 14@15.

EGGS—The market was reported unsettled to-day, and quotations were given at from 28 to 30. The feeling was scarcely as strong as yesterday, in consequence of the change in the weather.

FEATHERS—There is considerable inquiry and No. 1 may be quoted at 72@73 cts to the trade—usual advance for small lots; mixed stock 40@60 cts, according to quality.

FLOUR—Is steady with a moderate local trade but there is no change whatever in prices. Fair to good spring wheat $7,25@7,50; choice $7,75@7,85; fair to good red winter wheat, $7,50@7,75; choice do, $7,90@8,00. Rye Flour scarce and tending upward, in sympathy with Rye; the demand is light, however, and we continue to quote at $5,50.

GRAIN—The arrivals of Wheat continue liberal but the mills are still taking all that offers within the range of our quotations, $1.60@1,63 for red and $1,65@1,68 for white—sale of 2 cars in bulk at $1,63. A dealer who has just returned from a tour of observation reports that there is considerable wheat through the country but that farmers and country dealers are asking almost as much for it at home as can be realized for it here; hence he let it severely alone. Oats continue dull but unchanged; 48@50 for mixed to prime white by the car load. Sales of shelled Corn at 60 in elevator; ear at 58 for mixed and 60 for prime yellow, in bulk—1@2 cts additional bagged. Rye is scarce but unchanged; in the absence of sales we continue to quote at $1. Barley is steady but unchanged, 75@80 for spring and 80@85 for fall.

GROCERIES—The great problem with the grocery trade just now is the future course of the Coffee market and it is one that is very difficult to solve. The great point with dealers, is just here, whether to reduce or increase their stocks. It must be conceded that the situation at present looks very bearish; stocks are large and increasing, while the demand is unusually light, and as noted in our last report some sales have been made in second hands, in the seaboard markets, within the past few days at a decline of from ⅜ to 1 cent per lb. On the other hand, that the crop is short, seems to be a settled fact, and, furthermore, it is contended that Coffees cannot be imported at present prices; with this in view, importers, refuse to make any concessions, notwithstanding the majority of them are carrying heavy loads. It is probable however, that the market will be thoroughly tested within the next two or three weeks as it cannot possibly drag along in its present condition much longer. Sugars continue dull and we reduce our quotations on refined ⅜ of a cent. Molasses seem to have reacted at New Orleans again, our dispatches of Thursday quoting at 61 for choice. Syrups firm but unchanged. Carolina Rice is higher.

SUGARS—Refined—Standard Hards, 13; A, 12⅜; B, 12⅜; Ex. C, 12⅜; C Yellow, 11⅜@12; Porto Rico Sugars—Choice, 11; Prime, 10⅜; Good, 10. Demarara, 11⅜@12. New Orleans—fair, 10; good, 10⅜c; prime, 11; choice, 11⅜.

PITTSBURGH IRON MARKET.

OFFICE OF THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE, FRIDAY, March 1, 1872.

Trade in metal, as will be seen by reference to the report of sales below arrived, was fair-active this week, the volume of business in the aggregate being considerably larger than for some weeks preceding, and prices are still tending upward—the top does not yet seem to have been reached, and it is difficult to conjecture when it will be.

There has also been a further advance in finished irons of two-tenths of a cent per pound, and nails have been put up 25 cts per keg; bar iron has been advanced three times within about as many weeks, and another one is not improbable before another week rolls around.

PETROLEUM MARKET.

OFFICE OF THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE, FRIDAY, March 1, 1872.

Refined firmer and a shade higher. Spot, 21⅜; March, 22⅜; April, 23⅜; May, 24; business however, was very quiet, not a single sale reported. Crude at Parker, $3.42⅜, prompt shipment, and we understand that there was considerable purchased for this market at that figure. Pittsburgh deliveries nominal at 9⅜@9⅜ spot; 9⅜@9⅜, seller until July; 11 seller all year; and 12⅜ buyer all year.

At the meeting of producers and others at Titusville the other day, it is said that "telegrams were received from two firms in Buffalo offering to transport oil from Buffalo to New York at 80c per bbl, with guarantee of 100,000 bbls per annum. Also a telegram from Mr. George R. Blanchard, General Freight Agent of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, saying that neither the Pittsburgh and Connellsville Railroad nor the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad was concerned in the "South Improvement Company," nor will they be. General G. B. McClelland is reported to have telegraphed that the Atlantic and Great Western Railway nor any of its officers was interested in the combination, while a dispatch from Jay Gould was to the effect that the contract with the "South Improvement Company" had been signed by General McClelland, President on the part of the Atlantic and Great Western Railway."

River Intelligence.

The river was about stationary last evening with 4 feet 4 inches in the channel; it rose several inches during Thursday, but fell again during the day. Weather unchanged; thawed some, where exposed to the sun, but, at the same time, was freezing in the shade.

The Argosy, from Wheeling, arrived and departed, and the Carrie Brooks, from Marietta, was due last night, and will doubtless be found in port this morning.

The St. Charles departed for Cincinnati with all the freight she could take on the water and a fair number of passengers.

The Exchange was momentarily expected from New Orleans last evening. She will at once load for St. Louis, and, being a light boat, can go out with a good trip on the present stage of water.

The West Virginia, Capt. Peter Donaldson, is the regular independent Monongahela river packet to-day.

We understand that Mr. Thomas Fawcett the well-known coal merchant, is about contracting for a new towboat. She is to be 215 feet in length, 35 feet beam with 6 feet depth of hold. Engines, 16 inches in diameter; 9 feet stroke, 6 boilers 30 feet in length and 40 inches in diameter.

The Carrie Brooks, Capt. Darlington, is the regular packet for Marietta to-day leaving at noon. Messrs. Caldwell and Kirker are associated together in the office, and Henry Haney is the pilot.

Capt. Dan Moore expects to take the Arlington out early next week.

The Messenger for Nashville and Wild Duck for St. Louis, will depart as soon as there are a few more inches of water.

The towboat Brilliant was sold, on Thursday, by Capt. Wm. Munhall and brother, to W. W. Little, of Portsmouth, Ohio; price $10,000. She was built for the Allegheny river trade some years ago, and was considered one of the fastest towboats of her class on the river.

—We find the following suggestion in the commercial column of Tuesday's St. Louis Democrat: The present method adopted by the government of measuring the channel of various rivers in the Mississippi Valley at well known ports, and telegraphing the number of inches of rise or fall, is useless effort. The same money spent each year in measuring the amount of water upon known bars, shoals or rapids along various portions of the navigable streams of the valley, and telegraphing the exact number of inches found at say 9 o'clock every morning, would be really useful. Take, for instance, the worst bar between this point and Memphis, the worst bar between Beardstown and the mouth of the Illinois, &c., &c., daily information concerning the exact depth of water to be found on them would be of great value to every steamboat owner and pilot in the Mississippi Valley. Men stationed at these points could be kept cheaply, and a little telegraph station established which would be useful in preventing the loss of millions of dollars annually by the wrecking, damage, or detention of steamboats. We hope our Merchants' Exchange will take this matter in hand at once, and petition the government to abandon its present useless reports and adopt this really useful method of making them.

—Two negroes, Geo. Henderson and Joe Hodges, were arrested Sunday night, four miles from Memphis, upon the charge of killing two men on a trading boat, a few weeks since, at Stewart's Landing, Ark. They were found in a hut, and at first pretended that they did not know each other, but afterwards confessed the crime.

—The Trinity river steamer D. S. Page exploded her boiler, near Liberty, on Wednesday last. A cabin boy was seriously hurt, the mate's arm broken, and a fireman slightly scalded. Little damage was done to the boat.

—The steamboats R. J. Lockwood have been unfortunate, as the first one, a sidewheel boat, it will be remembered, blew up several years ago, thirty or forty miles below Memphis.

DAILY GAZETTE.

RESOURCES OF THE GREAT SOUTH WEST;

Or the Region Between the Rio Grande and the Rio Colorado, Along and Near the 35th Parallel.

A correspondent of the St. Louis Republican furnishes the following very interesting sketch of the rich mines of the Southwest. He says:

But little is really known in the eastern States respecting the country lying between the Rio Grande and the Rio Colorado, along or near the 35th parallel, or of what it is capable of producing either as a mineral, pastoral or agricultural region. A recent trip through this section has enabled me to gather much information which may tend to correct the erroneous impressions which have heretofore existed in the minds of many respecting it.

Leaving the town of Albuquerque, an old Mexican place which boasts of the age of nearly three centuries, and passing due west by the northern base of the San Mateo mountain and through the rich coal, gold and silver fields adjacent thereto, which, although explored centuries ago, still remain undeveloped, and will [illegible]obably remain so until the snort of the [illegible] horse of the Atlantic and Pacific [illegible] shall infuse new life and vigor [illegible] country by carrying thereto a [illegible] [ener]getic and enterprising population. After leaving the San Mateo we [illegible] continental divide through Cam[illegible] and descend into the broad [illegible] valley of Rio Puerco [illegible] and follow it to its con[illegible] Rio Colorado Chiquito and th[illegible] same to Sunset crossing. Th[illegible], which this long and contin[illegible] capable of producing, can be b[illegible] when it is known that the Na[illegible] Indians do raise corn upon [illegible] do credit to regions of boaste[illegible] the East. Along this entire va[illegible] be found ruins indicative of an im[illegible] population; and evidence of a civiliz[illegible] which rose, flourished, decayed and disappeared without a historian, through whom [illegible] exit might have [illegible] posterity; nothing [illegible] of its fortresses [illegible] palaces; and [illegible] Ruins, the dimensions of which at this distance [illegible] incredible. Probably the [illegible] buildings erected by the A[illegible] their protection, while on [illegible] the frozen regions of Behring [illegible] to found the empire of the Montezumas, in the tropical clime of Mexico. This whole region is strewn [illegible] with ruins and broken fragm[illegible] pottery, the pol[illegible] the present day—after [illegible] of centuries [illegible] with that of our [illegible] tops overlooking the lo[illegible] Rio Colorado Chiquito are crowded with the monuments of antiquity—almost resembling the castled Rhine—bear testimony to the dense population which existed, and necessarily subsisted themselves upon the product of this valley.

From Sunset crossing to the Rio Colorado our road traversed a high broken volcanic country, the extinct craters of which are found on every side; cool mountain springs abound; magnificent forests of large and valuable pine exist, and rich and extensive meadows are found, which are capable of sustaining immense herds of cattle, and the consequent pastoral population. Towards the Colorado the richest mineral region of Arizona is struck, and all other interests become submerged in the contemplation of its value and extent, and which will shortly be brought to contribute largely to the general wealth of the country.

Through the entire mineral region of Arizona mining is, and will continue to be, the great source of support from which its population will draw its subsistence, and as its entire extent is crossed with "lodes" of metalliferous substances which invite, and have to some extent received, the attention of the hardy, energetic, and venturesome explorer, who, casting aside all regard for the comforts and luxuries of home, starts forth on his voyage of discovery determined to develop and possess something richer, grander and more valuable than any discovery heretofore made. It is not sufficient that these adventurous spirits obtain or procure a property the produce of which would make them an Astor, or a Vanderbilt, but they, feeling the spirit of enterprise, simply stake out their claims and press on in their never ending voyage of exploration. Some years ago a number of these adventurers discovered, in the Cerbat range of mountains, extensive deposits of argentiferous galena, which assayed very rich; but the Hauari tribe of Indians, being then at war with all white men, attacked them, killing some, robbed and drove off the balance and deterred others from making any further effort to develope the rich hidden wealth of this exceedingly [illegible] district. Two years ago the troops having attacked and severely beaten the Indians in a series of engag[illegible], they were brought [illegible], and ever since maintained the most friendly relations. This fact becoming known, the adventurous pioneers again began to assemble, and on the 8th of February, 1870, eight of them again commenced the development of this section, and on the 4th of November of the same year, there had assembled a sufficient number to justify them in organizing the district of Wallipi, which embraced the whole Cerbat range, being twenty miles east and west by thirty miles north and south, which they designated as the Wallipi Mining District of Mojave county, Arizona, and from the date of this organization to October 20, 1871—not quite one year—over eleven hundred lodes had been registered in the office of the district recorder, and additional lodes were being daily discovered. On the date last above mentioned, in company with William J. Fee, the recorder of the district, I visited many of the mines which were then being worked or recently discovered. As the number of the mines visited are too numerous to mention in a letter of this kind, I shall simply allude to some of the most prominent. We visited first the Keystone lode, down which they had sunk two shafts, one to the depth of some sixty feet, and the other about fifty, developing at that depth a vein of four and one half to five feet in width, with a rapidly increasing value in ore. At this depth the ore will assay from $300 to $3,000 per ton; higher assays were made by the mineralogist who accompanied Lieut. Wheeler's United States exploring expedition, and who made assays of quite a large number of the veins then in process of exploration.

The Richmond is a large carbonate lode carrying about 50 per cent. bullion, and yielding from 160 to 175 ounces of pure silver per ton. This mine is owned by a company who were actively engaged in developing its hidden wealth; and at the depth then reached had opened a vein of three and one-half feet in thickness.

The Fairfield—The ore of this lode is a free sulphuret, about four feet in thickness and of unquestionable value. Assays made, place it on a par with the Keystone. [illegible]ttle work had yet been done toward [illegible]ing the vein; but the proprietors [illegible] just receiving an invoice of tools with which to commence vigorous operations.

The Mayflower—Had a shaft sunk to the depth of about 35 feet, developing at that depth a vein a little over three feet in thickness, from whence they extracted some select specimens which assayed $10,000 per ton—of silver and gold—and its owners were exceedingly sanguine in the belief that it would average from $500 to $700 per ton.

The Lone Star.—This vein of rich horn silver of a very pretty blue color, had been "gone down upon" to the depth of 35 or 40 feet, at which point they had developed a thickness of three feet. The proprietors informed me that they were sacking every fragment preparatory to shipping to San Francisco, with the belief that rich returns would be received therefrom. They presented me with a specimen which looked rich enough to jingle in its native state. Assays of select specimens have yielded $1,600 per ton.

After visiting the Dexter, Kearsarge, Rogers, Diamond, Empire, Donahue and other lodes in close proximity thereto, we returned, exceedingly tired from rambling over the steep and rocky mountain slope, to Mineral Park, the main village or town of the entire region, where, after being shown around by Mr. Fee and Captain Welborn (formerly a St. Louis steamboat man) they invited us to the restaurant of a "Heathen Chinee," where an elegant repast was awaiting us, served in a style exceedingly creditable to the place. This done, we took up our line of march for the village of Cerbet, the second village in size and importance, and situated in the centre of a perfect net work of lodes of carbonate, sulphuret, chlorine and argentiferous galena veins. Here we visited the Vanderbilt. A shaft has been sunk on this vein to a depth of about seventy feet, exposing at that point a width of about four feet, and yielding silver and gold to the extent of $250 to $600 per ton. The owners of this, with careful and judicious management, may reasonably aspire to an approximation of the wealth of the gentleman whose name it bears; and by the energy and industry they exhibited, it seemed pretty clear they were determined to insure success. At a short distance they were making adobes, and were preparing to erect furnaces and other buildings for the reduction of the ores of this and other mines they owned.

The Champion is a clear, well-defined vein, cropping out above ground for a long distance, and displays a thickness of about four feet, and resembles very much in character and quality the ores of the Vanderbilt, and is owned by the same parties, W. J. Fee & Co. They are likewise doing a very considerale amount of work upon it.

The Franklin is a rich carbonate ore contained in a vein fully four feet in thickness. Although but a small quantity of work had been done upon it, yet there was sufficient to develope the fact that the deposit was very rich, and assays of some specimens yielded $700 per ton.

The Todd is a large galena and carbonate lode, and yields rock which assays from $400 to $600 per ton. The vein is a little over four feet in width, and seems to increase as "they go down upon it." The proprietors of it were working with great vigor and energy under the supervision of the able and experienced miner, Capt. J. P. Layne, who took pleasure in placing specimens of it at our disposal, which he assured us would assay very highly, and which we are now having undergo the process of reduction with a view of ascertaining its real value. The owners of it, Messrs. Todd, Layne & Byrne, were exceedingly anxious to greet the advent of capitalists who would put up reduction works in their neighborhood, and save the great expense of transportation to San Francisco, and at the same time receive a more speedy return for their labor.

The Balloon is a lode of some 4 feet in thickness containing chloride of silver in rich paying quantities, intermixed with large deposits of "Horn" silver. Assays of this ore place it very high in rank among the many rich veins with which this region abounds; choice specimens have yielded at the rate of $6,000 per ton, but its owners confidently expect that from $300 to $500 can be obtained from it throughout. It is owned by J. P. Layne & Co., who were busily engaged in devel[illegible] its latent wealth and were preparing to send a large quantity of ore to [illegible]rancisco.

[illegible] Star—Is simply an extension [illegible] Balloon, and contains the same [illegible] and character of ore, which yields [illegible] the same results, and is owned by [illegible] same parties, and as they have been [illegible]oting their energies to the development [illegible] the former—as it was the first discovered—there has as yet been but little work done upon it, just sufficient to conform to the requirements of the district laws.

I visited many others, but those being the most noted have been referred to, in order that a slight idea might be conveyed to the public respecting the immense wealth that lies hidden in this district, which has only begun to attract the attention of the outside world, and when we recollect that there are over eleven hundred lodes or veins equally rich, contained in one isolated range of mountains, not exceeding twenty or twenty-five miles long, and from five to seven miles wide, and that it is as yet, but partially developed, we are forced to the conclusion that there is probably the richest deposit of wealth ever discovered upon the continent. Old miners from White Pine, Pioche, and the Bradshaw districts—each of which have in their turn attracted the attention of the country—assure me that they never in any of the said districts met with such deposits as here abound, and which will in a short time attract capital from all portions of the country.

WHETHER the love that outweighed judgment and regret in the heart of one mother is to be emulated, is matter for argument, but certainly it was beautiful. This mother, a few days since, found a lost daughter in New York, under circumstances showing that the girl had fallen to the lowest depths in vice, though all the good was not crushed out, for she was deeply affected on meeting her mother. The police officer who was present at the meeting of the two kindly expressed sorrow for the mother's tears that fell in a shower, and attempted to console her "Oh, sir," said the mother, "these are not tears of sorrow; they are tears of joy at again seeing my darling child. She is my own, with all her faults."

A Stable Institution.—Just at the period when all stable-men were complaining that the horse-ointments of the day were unstable remedies, the Mustang Liniment made its entree in Missouri, without any flourish of trumpets, and within one year became the favorite embrocation for the external distempers and injuries of horses and cattle in all the Western and Southern States. From that time to this, it has never had a rival in the estimation of accomplished horsemen; nor is its household reputation as a cure for rheumatism, neuralgia, sore nipples and caked breasts, tumors, mumps, sore throat, earache, toothache, bruises, burns, wounds and sprains, a whit behind its celebrity as a horse Liniment. The Mothers of America know its value, and apply promptly to the external injuries of the "rising generation," and in fact there is not a city or township in the United States where the Mustang Liniment is not regarded by both sexes and every class, as a blessing to the community. Found Dead at a Hotel.

Yesterday morning Michael A. Lorenz, a guest at the St. Charles Hotel, was found dead in his room. He came to the hotel Wednesday evening; Thursday morning he sent out for his breakfast, which was served to him in his room. He was not seen about again, and yesterday the proprietor of the hotel, thinking something was wrong, forced the door open, when the body was found lying on the floor. The deceased was partially dressed, and evidently had been attempting to go out when he fell.

Coroner West held an inquest, when a verdict of death from congestion of the brain was rendered. Deceased was twenty-eight years of age, and unmarried. He had been living in Philadelphia, where he was engaged in the hat trade.

Fullerton's Tailoring Establishment.

In the change of winter to spring all must don new robes, and gentlemen especially are worried to know where they can, to best advantage, bestow their patronage. Of the many tailoring establishments conducted in first class style in Pittsburgh, none more deservedly sustain a higher reputation than the popular one of Mr. William J. Fullerton, corner Third avenue and Smithfield street. In anticipation of a heavy trade, the ever live proprietor has just supplied himself with a very large and judiciously selected stock of spring goods, which embraces all that is fresh, new and fashionable. He guarantees to please whosoever call upon him, both as to the quality of his goods and the manner and style of his workmanship. Employing none but the best tailors, he can confidently assert the superiority and durability of any garment that leaves his establishment. His prices are always reasonable. Gentlemen will always find here a large selection of seasonable furnishing goods, consisting of all articles in the line. We commend Mr. Fullerton's establishment to our friends, knowing that nowhere else will they be more courteously or satisfactorily dealt with.

Brilliant Wedding.

Our very much appreciated friend, Dr. Charles Hauck, the accomplished member of Common Council from the old Second ward, was united in matrimony on Thursday evening to Miss Martha Jane Richards, of this city, a lady in every way worthy of his choice. The interesting ceremony took place at the First Presbyterian Church, and was performed by Rev. S. F. Scovel. A large audience thronged the church. The bride was very elegantly enrobed, wearing a heavy corded corn colored satin dress, made with flowing train, and profusely trimmed with real point lace and wax flowers. She wore a lace veil reaching to the ground, and fastened to the head by a wreath of orange blossoms delicately wrought, and studded with brilliant settings. The bridesmaid was Miss Constance Hauck, sister of the groom, and her dress was conspicuous for good taste and neatness. Mr. Benjamin Richards, [illegible] of the bride, was groomsman. The happy young couple held a re[illegible] at the residence of C. F. Bauer, [illegible], the able editor of the Volksblatt, [illegible] which they left for an extended [illegible] tour. We wish them much joy and happiness. Dr. Hauch is worthy a good and loving wife, and we are certain he has made no mistake, but has drawn a valuable prize in the matrimonial lottery.

The police pay roll for the month of February, amounting to $9,325.10 was also approved. Dr. McCann was elected City Physician, vice Dr. Murdoch. A sub-committee was appointed to make an investigation as to whether there were any men on the Police force who are not citizens—a fact which has not unfrequently been alleged to be in existence—the sub-committee to report at a future meeting.

RAGS IN FLAMES.

Fire in Allegheny Last Night—A Rag Warehouse Partially Destroyed—Loss about $1,800—Accident to Chief Engineer Crow.

Last night shortly after seven o'clock, a fire broke out in Mooney's rag warehouse, in the rear of 22 South Diamond street, Allegheny. The fire was first discovered by Mr. George M. Dosch, whose store fronting on Federal street, extends back to the alley, close to the warehouse. He forced his way into the building and attempted to extinguish the flames by smothering them with some of the clothes laying about, but finding his efforts fruitless, he ran out and sounded an alarm from box 34, in the Mayor's office. The department was thus called out and in about three quarters of an hour the fire was put out, not however before a large part of the stock was destroyed and the building damaged considerably. The loss on the stock will amount to about $1,000, and on the building about $800; upon the latter there is an insurance which will cover the damage. It was owned by Mr. John Shultz, but leased by L. Mooney who had it pretty well stocked with rags, old iron, &c., in which he dealt.

After the fire had been extinguished, Chief Engineer Crow was walking through the building on the second floor when blinded by the smoke, he fell through a hatchway to the lower story, a distance of about fourteen feet. He was picked up in a semi-unconscious condition and carried into Taggart's shoe store, where restoratives were applied, under the influence of which he recovered sufficiently to be able to walk away. In falling he struck his head against the floor, inflicting a severe gash, but fortunately doing no more serious damage. He was quite deaf for a while with the shock, but after receiving medical attention and having his wound dressed, recovered his hearing.

WESTMINSTER COLLEGE.

Under a New Board—Election of a President—Efforts to Further the Interests of the Institution.

The Westminster College, located at New Wilmington, Lawrence county, has been under the superintendence and control, for years, of the First United Presbyterian Synod of the West. Last fall that Synod tendered to the Synod of Pittsburgh the half of the property and control of the Institution. This liberal tender was accepted by the Synod of Pittsburgh, and the necessary legislation having been obtained at Harrisburg, the old board met in the College Hall, at Wilmington, on Wednesday last for the purpose of formally handing over the Institution to the care and control of the new board, elected under the new regime.

Before the formal transfer was made the old board balloted several times for a President for the College, to fill the vacancy created by the resignation of Rev. Robert Audley Browne, D. D., about a year ago. They failed however to make a selection.

The new board consists of twenty-four members, twelve from each of the two Synods, four of whom are to be elected at the annual meeting of each Synod, to serve for three years. They organized on Thursday last by electing Rev Joseph H. Pressly D. D., of Erie, son of the late Rev. John T. Pressly D. D., President, and Rev. J. M. Donaldson, of New Wilmington, Secretary.

The chief business of the new Board was to elect a President of the College to fill the vacancy referred to, which the old Board failed to do. There were some four or five names proposed. On the third ballot Rev. W. J. Reid, of this city had a majority of all the votes cast. On motion, the election was declared unanimous.

The President of the Board was instructed to call a meeting to be held in Pittsburgh in about two weeks, to receive the reply of Mr. Reid. There is a diversity of opinion as to his acceptance. Some speak affirmatively, and others negatively in relation to the matter. It will be known certainly when the Board meets here, in about two weeks.

Before adjourning the Board resolved to make renewed exertions to further the prosperity of the Institution, which was established about twenty years ago chiefly through the agency of the late William Dickey, Esq.

WOMAN'S NEED OF THE BALLOT.

Address of the Rev. Olympia Brown, Before the Woman's Suffrage Association—"A Woman in the Pulpit" of the Universalist Church—A Very Able Argument in Favor of Woman's Suffrage.

A large and highly intelligent audience gathered last evening, at the Universalist church, at Third avenue and Grant street, to hear the subject of woman's suffrage discussed by one of its most able and gifted advocates, the Rev. Miss Olympia Brown, pastor of the Universalist church of Bridgeport, Connecticut.

At a few minutes before eight o'clock Miss Brown entered the church, and, in company with Miss Matilda Hindman, President of the Association, ascended the steps of the sacred desk. The lady's appearance and general bearing at once predisposed her in the favor of the audience. She was plainly dressed, wearing a modest black suit, with plain cuffs and collar, a plain pink knot of ribbon, decorated with a small breastpin, being the only attempts toward personal adornment. We will not attempt a guess at the lady's age, but it might be variously guessed at from twenty-five to forty. She is, moreover, and one would, from her general appearance and demeanor, scarcely judge that she belonged to the "strong minded" fraternity.

The two ladies having taken seats in the pulpit, Miss Hindman arose, and stated that the time for beginning the lecture not having arrived, she would take occasion to state to the Association that the committee appointed by the Association to present certain petitions to the State Legislature, praying that a bill might be passed authorizing

WOMEN TO ACT AS DELEGATES

To the Convention soon to meet for the purpose of amending the State Constitution, had performed their duty, and a report of the success which had attended their efforts would be submitted in due time.

AN OPENING PRAYER

Was offered by the Rev. Van De Mark, after which the reverend lecturess was introduced to the audience by Miss Hindman.

Miss Brown opened her subject by stating that when, in the beginning, God created our first parents, he created them and gave them dominion over the beast of the field, the fowls of the air, and the fish of the sea. All the earth, with all its treasurers and all it could be made to yield, were to be the inheritance of the human family without regard to sex. Woman was to have an interest in the broad dominion as well as man. Her title deed to the broad earth was as good as that of the man. But she she has since been

MALE AND FEMALE,

CHEATED OUT OF HER INHERITANCE.

In the early times "might is right" was the great principle upon which men acted. Woman was made a slave, to do the heavy drudgery and sit at the feet of her lord and master, but was never allowed a place at his side, or acknowledged as his peer. During all that dark period she was utterly degraded, and had no rights save to wear out her life doing drudgery for her lord and his family. So low was she in the estimation of the "lords of creation" that at one time it was a mooted question whether or no woman had a soul. But

TRUTH TRIUMPHS AS THE WORLD ADVANCES.

Woman in the course of time learned the alphabet, and learned that she had other rights than those accorded her. Many persons think that, at this age, the climax has been attained. Yet when we look about us, we see one-half of our people disfranchised, by law, and the customs of society, and the members of that class are in consequence deprived of the opportunities of making half the attainments of which they are capable.

IS IT FAIR?

In our schools, where visits are made by directors, preachers, &c., the boys get all the attention. The hopes of parents and friends are centered upon the boys, and they are thus filled with noble emulation, that these bright expectations may be realized. Their future is planned and predicted for them, and thus success is almost insured. Everybody help along and encourages the young man. All over the land colleges for good young men are endowed.

EVEN OLD MAIDS

are frequently known to rake and scrape, in order that they may put away a portion of their hard earnings to educate a pious young man. And after all this, when the young man has received the finest and most complete education which the country can afford, no man can say, with reference to him, that "thus far shalt thou go and no further." Every position in the country, from the barber's chair to a seat in the White House, is open to him. Such is the case with the boy.

HOW IS IT WITH THE GIRL?

In school she may spell as well, read as well, and give full satisfaction in recitation. But does she get equal attention, equal praise, equal encouragement as that accorded to her brother? They are taught, as their most important lesson, to and in due time they will get married. Be good, be beautiful, be pleasing in manners and conversation, and get married. The girl's training in a majority of cases all amounts to that, and but little else. Getting married is the great end. She must be pleasing and affable, and always agree with everybody in general, and [illegible] in partic[illegible] won't [illegible] married. It won't do for her [illegible] up strong-minded, or she will never be able to attain the great end and aim of her existence.

As she grows up, there are no endowed scholarships awaiting her. She must be content with a mere common school education, unless she has rich parents, and even then the best thing open to her is a female seminary. Here she is expected to read by rule, eat by rule, and pray by rule, without the least spark of a chance to develop individuality or independence of character; all is formality. She is taught with, may be, a smattering of science. But she is not required or permitted to master a single branch through the use of which she might make life a success. She is taught that all the education she needs is a mere smattering—just sufficient to make her intelligent in conversation. She is sent home, amply qualified to RUN A DRY GOODS BILL.

But not having learned how to earn a dollar towards its payment. Her parents teach her that she must be pleasing, and after a while she will get married, and be settled. What does this settlement mean? Men must be secured to pay her bills, and it matters little as to the character of the young man, or the affection received or bestowed in the matter, so he have the qualification of paying the bills. If he have faults, she is told that all young men must sow their "wild oats," and she is encouraged to overlook these faults. Is it any wonder, when women are thus taught that there are divorces, drunkards, and all manner of evil in the social circle.

Is it any wonder that she goes down, down into the pit, and the door is shut, and she is abandoned indeed?

IS THE BALLOT NEEDED?

The speaker now went on to argue that the ballot was the key to open the door of the treasure house, which contains the privileges and advantages which she so much needs. The ballot is the great incentive that awakens ambition in men, and what it is to men it would be to women.

Miss Brown concluded by an earnest appeal to the members of the Suffrage Association to persevere in their good work, and they would be sure of victory in the end.

THE COURTS.

Yesterday's Proceedings.

DISTRICT COURT—JUDGE KIRKPATRICK.

True Economy.

The best is the cheapest, which makes it a duty to buy a first class article from a first class establishment, both of which are to be found at No. 114 Federal street, Allegheny, and especially is this true in reference to the assortment of silverware here displayed to view, a thorough inspection of which must give the following verdict, viz: excellence in quality, beautiful in design and elegant and elaborate in finish and workmanship. This of truth is the kind of silverware to be found at S. M. Orr's, 114 Federal street, and the reasonable rates at which the same are offered makes it true economy to purchase here.

National Joy.

France will boast of her Napoleon with feelings peculiar to France; England with mingled gloom and glory will associate the names of Nelson and Trafalgar; Ireland, as she sweeps the wild harp of her country's misfortune, will sing of the eloquence of her Curran, and the martyrdom of her Emmett; but higher than all are the peans of the young gentlemen of Pittsburgh who secure some of those elegant suits of fashionable clothing which can alone come from the popular establishment of URLING, FOLLANSBEE & CO., southwest corner of Wood street and Fifth avenue.

AMONG THE CHURCHES.

Personal and Otherwise.

REV. JOS. R. KERR will lecture on Fiction, in Library Hall, on Thursday evening next.

A NEW United Presbyterian church is about to be organized at Bellevue, on the line of the Fort Wayne Railroad. Wm. Dunseath, Esq., is one of the moving spirits.

THE communion of the Lord's Supper will be dispensed in the First U. P. Church, Allegheny, to-morrow. Rev. Wm. S. Owens, of Indiana, will conduct the exercises.

A SERIES of meetings has been in progress for several weeks in the Bellefield Presbyterian church of this city. The attendance is large, and much interest is manifested.

REV. WM. J. REID, of the First United Presbyterian Church, of this city, has been elected to the Presidency of Westminster College, New Wilmington, Pa. He is considering.

THE beautiful service of the Catholic Church in honor of the Blessed Sacrament, known as the forty hours devotion, commences to-morrow in St. Philomean's Church (German) Liberty street.

THE church of Bellevue, Presbytery of Allegheny, though recently organized and comparatively small, is active and vigorous, and is making arrangements to erect a house of worship during the summer.

REV. T. N. BOYLE, of Allegheny will preach in the Temperanceville M. E Church. Rev. R. T. Miller Pastor, to-morrow morning at half-past ten o'clock and Rev. L. M. Gardner of this city in the evening at seven.

REV. J. W. WITHERSPOON will preach under the auspices of the Eleventh Ward Mission on Sabbath evening in the hall of the Eleventh Ward Public School House, Granville street, near Wylie avenue at 7½ o'clock. A cordial invitation extended to all.

THE Twenty-second Ward of this city, one of the new wards, has not a single church building. The Mt. Olivet Presbyterian congregation are worshipping in a new school house at present, but are making efforts for the erection of one of their own.

THE Seventh United Presbyterian Church (Rev. Wm. H. Andrew, Pastor) is at present in a flourishing state. During the past year they have added largely to their numbers. Their present building being inadequate to accommodate them they have purchased a valuable lot and propose soon to erect a new and commodious church edifice. Mr. Andrew is known as an able minister and an efficient and earnest worker.

THE seventh anniversary of the Ladies' Home Missionary Society, of the M. E. Church, in this vicinity, will be held to-morrow evening, commencing at seven o'clock, in the Smithfield street church, Rev. A. B. Leonard, Pastor. The meeting will be presided over by S. M. Kier, Esq. The programme will consist of reports of the officers, and the missionary, Rev. J. C. High, and the annual address by the Rev. W. A. Davidson, D. D. These exercises will be plentifully interspersed with music from one of the best choirs in the city.

WE are glad to announce that subscription books are open for the purchase of a lot and the erection of the necessary buildings for the Eleventh Ward Mission. We notice first on the list the names of two noble Christian givers—and each subscribing one thousand dollars. Such names are a guarantee of success. It is said that the amount required will be at least twenty-five thousand dollars. And we hope soon to chronicle the fact that the entire amount has been raised. We hope the friends of the good work will respond liberally. We wish the enterprise success.

A GOOD way to judge of the success of the recent Sabbath School meetings held in our city, was the reception the contribution box met with, which was thus:

First Presbyterian Church	$505 94
Bellefield	52 88
Allegheny	23 00
	$581 82

The Treasurer, J. D. Carlisle, 27 Fifth avenue, will be glad to receive the contributions for State or county work, of any who were obliged to leave before the box went around, and will be glad to return the two dollar bad bill to the man who thought the collection was for the heathen.

THE many friends, hereabouts, of the Rev. E. J. Gray, formerly pastor of the North Avenue M. E. Church, Allegheny, will learn with pleasure, of a series of pleasant surprises of which he and his estimable lady were made the subjects recently. The reverend gentleman has been stationed at Frostburg, Md., for the past two years, where he has been eminently successful in building up the Church, and in winning the love of the community. A "revival" of six weeks duration his congregation has just closed, resulting in the accession of one hundred and thirteen to the membership of the church.

Last Sabbath afternoon, just before the close of the Sunday School service, the pastor and his wife were made the recipients of a magnificent silver tea service, all complete and suitably inscribed—the gift of the school. Not content with this manifestation of affection, their friends followed it up, by an impromptu church sociable, on Tuesday evening, at which Mrs. Gray received an elegant French China tea sett, and Mr. Gray with a silver ice pitcher.

The "Journal," from which we obtain this information, gives extended notices of each occasion, and speaks in the highest terms of the regard in which the recipients of these testimonials are universally held by the people of Frostburg.

THE OIL MEN'S FLURRY.

The South Improvement Company—No Abatement in the Excitement—Mass Meeting in Oil City Yesterday.

The excitement which has been created among oil dealers by the alleged organization of a gigantic combination under the style of the South Improvement Company, shows no signs of abatement; indeed it is rather on the increase and has become the prevailing sensation in the oil regions, as well as throughout the trade generally. The mass meeting held in Titusville the other day, was followed with another in Oil City yesterday, which was attended by representatives from Pittsburgh, Erie, Buffalo, Cleveland, New York and other places, interested in the petroleum trade. The gathering was held in the Opera House, and is said to have been one of the largest assemblages ever convened in the Oil Regions. The proceedings partook largely of the character of an informal, but exceedingly fierce denunciation of the company, and all connected therewith.

Resolutions were passed recommending the construction of new railroad lines to afford outlets from the Oil regions independent of the present lines of railway travel.

By one of these proposed new lines, a connection was contemplated with the Connellsville Railroad by a branch road from Franklin across the intervening country; the "Connellsville" it was stated was in no way interested in the company. Other routes from Titusville to Erie, from Titusville to Buffalo, from Franklin to Buffalo, &c., were recommended and the people urged to further these enterprises with subscriptions at once.

Reports were also received from committees appointed at the Titusville meeting. Among them was the draft of a petition to be forwarded to the Legislature, in which the statement was made that legislation at various times had been obtained under deceptive titles; that all the powers granted in this way were now formed under one grand combination, which was to be used in crushing out all who were at present engaged in the production of petroleum. The petitioners therefore prayed for relief from the impending evil.

The oil producers association committee reported a plan to defeat the "monopoly" by diminishing the production of oil for the next sixty days. This was to be brought about by starting no new wells, reduce the production by shutting down the wells on Sunday and using no torpedoes, &c., to increase the flow. The association also recommended that no oil be shipped except by the Allegheny river, or roads not in the combination; the holding of all oil possible in the oil regions; sustaining the refining interests in the oil regions; selling no oil to parties in the Company.

A "producers pledge" agreeing to follow this programme was presented for adoption. The Executive Committee, however, decided to adopt no plan until further consideration, but it was decided by the meeting to shut down all wells on Sunday.

No definite action however was taken on any of the schemes proposed, but, the result of the meeting may perhaps be more clearly demonstrated by action within a few days.

BARREL HEAD FACTORY.

This property is located within about 30 miles of Toledo, Ohio, on the line of the Flint and Pere Marquette Railway. The surrounding country is settled by an industrious and intelligent people. Having been without railroad connections until the past year, they have not culled the timber, and to any party wishing to go into the hardwood lumber trade no better point than this can be found. The demand for such lumber in Toledo is far ahead of the supply and is growing yearly. The F. & P. M. Road also opens up the Saginaw valley to the supply of feed and flour from the mill. Five acres of land, three dwelling houses and other improvements with the mill. Satisfactory reasons for selling given on application.
